ALL MANN WANTS IS GOVERNORSHIP

Tucker Declares He Is for Anything, Just So He Gets the Job.

ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING

Nottoway Candidate Addresses Voters at Fredericksburg and Discusses Issues.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) NORFOLK, VA., July 28.—Before an audience that tested the capacity of the Granby Theatre, and in which were practically all the prominent political leaders of the "organization," openly advocating Judge Mann, Hon. Harry St. George Tucker to-night, with remarkable directness and eloquence, warmed up indifference into enthusiasm, winning many friends by his presentation of his platform on which he is making the race for Governor.

Declaring early in his speech that Judge Mann reminded him of the applicant for a visible school position, who, when asked which of the two contentions he believed as to whether or not the world was round or square, told his quizzers that it made no difference to him; that he would teach whichever theory they favored. Mr. Tucker carried his crowd by storm. His ridicule of Judge Mann's claim to be the Anti-Saloon candidate, while being supported by the leaders of the liquor dealers, also caught the crowd, and when he asked how this could be explained, a Mann enthusiast cried out: "They want to get him out of the Senate, where he is doing the traffic the greatest harm," to which Mr. Tucker made no reply, evidently not understanding the interruption. There were audible smiles.

Mr. Tucker declared that Judge Mann was for anything his backers wanted, just so he was given the gubernatorial job. The usual charges against Judge Mann were dwelt on at length and counter charges were met.

Mr. Tucker was introduced to the audience by Mayor Riddick. A score of prominent citizens occupied the stage.

Mann at Fredericksburg. (Special to The Times-Dispatch.) FREDERICKSBURG, VA., July 28.—Judge William Hodges Mann, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, addressed a fair audience in the courthouse here to-night. He was introduced by Captain M. B. Rowe. He touched on all the leading questions before the public. In expressing his interest in higher education he stated that he was in favor of the high school bill in the Virginia State Senate, which became a law. Judge Mann was warm in his advocacy of good roads, and he gave an account of his connection with the State road question. He expressed himself as unequalled for local option, having supported all temperance measures in the Legislature, in elections and on the stump.

Judge Mann did not abuse his opponent, Mr. Tucker, but discussed his record in a respectful way. He claimed that he would carry every district in the primary on August 5, with possibly one exception. He expressed the greatest confidence in his nomination.

Judge Mann was heartily applauded during his speech, and he made a fine impression on his hearers. Colonel E. D. Cole, city chairman, presided at the meeting. A number of women were in the audience.

Mann Rally To-Night. (Special to The Times-Dispatch.) LYNCHBURG, VA., July 28.—Supporters of Judge Mann expect to see him have a fine time at the rally here to-night, when he will tell the voters why he does not think they will get a "squeezed lemon," as Mr. Tucker put it here last week. If he is nominated. The meeting will be presided over by John W. Cuddock and George E. Caske will introduce the speaker.

PROF. BASIL SOLLERS DIES. Baltimore Public School Principal Suddenly Expires.

BALTIMORE, July 28.—Professor Basil Sollers, one of the best-known educators in the State, died suddenly yesterday afternoon at 12:30 o'clock of his long-continued neuralgia of the heart. Professor Sollers had been ill since Friday last, but while his condition was serious, he was not thought to be critically ill. Less than four hours before his death he was visited by his physician, who pronounced his condition better than the previous night.

Mrs. Sollers was with her husband when he died. She was sitting in the room with a cup of milk, which she was placing to her husband's lips, when he fell back unconscious. His doctors called for help, and a physician was sent for, but Mr. Sollers was dead within ten minutes after he had been pronounced dead.
